Got Light Announces Ten New Illuminated Decor Collections
*San Francisco's Leading Event Design Team Got Light Fabricates One-of-a Kind Event Decor

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10, 2014 – San Francisco's leading event design team Got Light is proud to reveal their ten new illuminated decor collections. From chandeliers to marquee lights, rustic to chic, their entire collection has evolved to match the latest architectural trends. Their online decor gallery (<http://www.got-light.com/decor>) provides a visual, in-depth look of ten collections.

"Nearing our tenth anniversary, launching these new decor collections is an exciting step in Got Light's continued growth. These exciting new products are providing renewed character and energy to all events," says co-owner Jon Retsky. "Got Light's success has been built on creatively transforming empty spaces by employing innovative solutions and designs," explains Got Light co-owner Russell Holt. "With these newly launched collections, we are taking events to the next level."

Beginning with the Reclaimed Collection, Got Light now offers a unique twist on traditional illuminated decor. Got Light's team of artists, engineers, and technicians fabricated reclaimed items including antique birdcages, rope, wine jugs, mason jars, washtubs, barrels, branches, and even lobster baskets into new decor items. Ideally suited for weddings in the Napa Valley or rustic industrial corporate events, the Reclaimed Collection provides unique charm and character.

Got Light's Marquee Collection features hand-crafted works of art, using reclaimed wood and automotive grade aluminum. These industrial modern lights illuminate any space, indoors or out, with glowing warmth and have a story to tell. The rustic Marquee letters, numbers, and symbols, each one with unique reclaimed wood backing, are available in any combination, can be custom-made to suit any event theme, and create bold statements with light.

Included in the newest offerings are a wide variety of crystal chandeliers in the Crystal Chic Collection, whimsical decor in the Wine Country Collection, clean sophistication within the Urban Chic Collection, various capiz shapes in the Pacific Collection, a colorful variety of shapes in the Lantern Collection, and unique copper hooked lanterns to light the way in the Path Collection. Got Light proudly boasts the Bay Area's largest inventory of mirror balls with six different sizes in the Mirror Collection, and their Inflate Collection merges air and light to create instant decor, color, and illumination.
